DUTY OF JURY TO DETERMINE STRIKE MOTIVE

Supreme Court Refuses to Review Case of Former Sante Fe Employes Convicted of Criminal Conspiracy

REFUSED TO WORK

At Height of Shopmen's Strike Men Refused to Take Out Trains at Needles, Cal. —Mails Delayed

Washington, Oct. 13. — The motive of railroad employes in ordering a strike which results in the obstruction of interestate commerce and delay in the dispatch of the mails must be determined by a jury and the verdict of the jury will not be set aside by appellate courts when it appears that all essential facts were presented during the trial.

This principle of law was recognized by the supreme court today when it refused to review a case in which former employes of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad were convicted of a criminal conspiracy during the shopmen's strike of 1922. The court did not hand down a written decision but simply refused to grant a writ of certiorari sought by the convicted employes, thus in substance affirming the lower courts.

The finding by the ninth circuit court of appeals that all contentions raised by the striking employes had been fully presented to and considered by the jury, it was indicated, was sufficient to satisfy the supreme court that the controversy presented no questions for its consideration.

The case had been closely followed by railroad officials and employes because it presented the problem of the weight which juries must give to the official declarations of railroad employes in setting forth the reasons which actuated them in declaring a strike. The employes insisted that the jury should be controlled in looking for the motive for the strike by the demands which they had made upon their employers, while the government contended that the jury was free to consider all facts in reaching its verdict.

Motive of Walkout Disputed.

The [illegible] of the government establishes a precedent in the appellate court refusing to review the findings of facts as presented in the verdict of a jury when the motive which inspired a strike were at issue, and especially when the effect of the strike was to obstruct interestate commerce and delay the mails, and the contentions of both sides had been presented to the jury.

It was at the height of the shop crafts strike, in August, 1922, that employes on the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad refused to move trains out of Needles, Cal., and at places on the desert in Arizona.

The motive for the walkout became at once a subject of controversy. The government insisted that the action of the employes had been inspired to tie up the system and force an acceptance of the demands of the striking shop men. The workmen asserted that the walkout followed the refusal of the company to remedy intolerable working conditions, and had no relation whatever to the shopmen's strike.

When a jury in the federal district court for southern California heard the evidence presented by both sides, it returned a verdict holding R. H. Clements, John Stechlein, C. I. Fox, A. Arkebauer, E. H. Reynolds, L. E. Woodbeck, E. Fraseur, and C. E. Holly, indicted as leaders of the strike guilty of a wilful and criminal conspiracy to obstruct the mails and to interfere with interstate commerce.

Deny Abandoning Trains.

The convicted men, in urging the supreme court to review the case, contended that the evidence was ample to sustain their plea that the strike had been esorted to only after the company had refused to remove the armed guards and to keep the locomotives in proper running order. It was high time, they insisted, that [illegible] have the same right to strike as workmen in other lines of industry, should be determined by the court of last resort. That court should announce, they asserted, whether a strike of employes upon a railroad carrying the mails and engaged in interstate commerce, which resulted in the stoppage of trains, of itself constituted an unlawful obstruction of the mails and an illegal interference with interstate commerce, when the strike was directed against working conditions which were unbearable.

Indignant denial was made by the workmen to the charge that they had "abandoned passenger trains on the desert." They declared that in every instance train crews at work when the strike was called completed their runs, and that transportation was halted only when employes, exercising their rights, refused to report for work.

The government, in contending that the case was closed and not open to review by the supreme court, pointed out that the ninth circuit court of appeals had found that all the questions at issue had been fully presented to and considered by a jury, which had reported that the facts sustained the charge of a criminal conspiracy. [illegible] as the only question at issue was one of fact, relating to the motive for the strike, that question was one which a jury alone could decide, the government asserted, insisting that there was no claim of new evidence or other sufficient grounds to warrant a reversal of the findings of the jury.

ROOSEVELT WOULD AID STATE FAIR

Immediate Erection of Horticultural Building Needed, He Tells Syracusans

Syracuse, Oct. 13. — Speaking in the arena here tonight Theodore Roosevelt, Republican nominee for governor, said he favored further development of the State fair and the erection at once of a horticultural building there in the interest of fruit growers. Colonel Roosevelt chided the Democrats, accusing them of inconsistency and comparing them to Mr. Facing Both Ways of "Pilgrims Progress."

Recalling the establishment of the fair under Governor Hughes' administration, the nominee said it could function more effectively in the interest of the state agriculture.

"As I see it," he said, "the full value of the fair is not appreciated. It provides a rallying point for all interested in agriculture."

He spoke of the importance of better rural homes and commended the fair and the schools of agriculture in Syracuse and Cornell universities in this connection.

"I am making the main part of my campaign on state issues," said the nominee. "But national issues are also important and the state Democracy must accept the full responsibility for the national and discuss national issues also.

"Only a few weeks ago the Democratic party was unalterably pledged to Davis. Nevertheless, at this time many Democrats are pretending that they have only a bowing acquaintance with Mr. Davis and Mr. Bryan. But in the state and nation they are tarred with the same brush."

GERALD CHAPMAN STILL AT LIBERTY

Companion in Robbery That Ended in Murder Held—Many Tips of Whereabouts

New Britain, Conn., Oct. 13.—With Walter E. Shean of Springfield, Mass., held without bond for murder as a result of the death of Policeman James Skelly, during an attempt to rob the Davidson and Levanthal department store Sunday morning, the state police were redoubling their efforts today to locate Gerald Chapman, a notorious holdup man who is alleged to have fired the shot which killed the patrolman. All efforts to find the alleged gunman, who was convicted of a large mail robbery in New York and sentenced to Atlanta prison from which he escaped, had failed tonight.

Shean pleaded not guilty in court this morning and was bound over to superior court in Hartford.

Numerous tips have been received by the police in their hunt for Chapman. It is reported from Newington that a man, very much excited, boarded a trolley car in that place yesterday morning, and after dropping two coins in the box when but one was needed, stopped the car after it had gone a mile and left hurriedly. Passengers said the description of the man tallied with that of Chapman.

All traces of Chapman vanished after he left the front door of the department store after the shooting. The car barn is nearby and the police believe that the hunted man boarded a trolley car there and left the city.

PLUMBER FINDS GAS LEAK WITH CANDLE; THREE HURT

New York, Oct. 13.—Three persons were injured and many were flung to the pavements today when an explosion followed a plumber's effort to find a drug store gas leak with a lighted candle. Show windows in the store were blown across the street and glass in passing taxicabs was smashed. The blast was heard 10 blocks away.

The accident happened in Seventh avenue near the Pennsylvania station and nearly started a commuters' panic. The proprietor of the store said that the plumber responsible for the explosion disappeared shortly after the trouble occurred. The police started a search for him.

SPANKING ADVOCATED FOR SHIEKS AND FLAPPERS

Chicago, Oct. 13. — Less than one-tenth of one per cent of the girls and boys of today try to be flappers and sheiks, Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, national director of the Christian Citizenship, W. C. T. U., declared tonight in an address before the annual meetings of the Women's Home Missionary society here.

"Girls who think they are flappers and try to flap with cigarettes and boys who act the sheik with a pocket flask ought to be taken to the woodshed and given a good old fashioned spanking," she declared. "The modern style in dress of girls is a benefit to their health and grace, but the youth movement goes too far when it adds gin and tobacco to short skirts."

DENIES CLAIM AGAINST FORD

Washington, Oct. 13.—The supreme court today refused to consider whether Henry Ford owes Edward S. Huff $[illegible] as royalty upon magnetos used on [illegible] automobiles.

Huff claimed he was paid $10,000 by Ford for the invention but that he was also to receive $2.50 for each magneto used. The lower federal courts held that Huff had neglected to press his claim within the time allowed by law.

MUSCLE SHOALS WITHDRAWAL OF OFFER LEARNED

Edsel Ford Confirms Article in Colliers Weekly That Father Has Cancelled Bid for Property

CAPITAL SURPRISED

White House and War Department Uninformed of Action—Was First Order of Business in the Senate

Detroit, Oct. 13. — Edsel B. Ford, president of the Ford Motor company, and son of Henry Ford, tonight confirmed an interview in the current issue of Colliers Weekly to the effect that Henry Ford had withdrawn his bid for Muscle Shoals. Henry Ford, who is making preparations to entertain the Prince of Wales here tomorrow, could not be reached tonight.

Edsel Ford refused to comment in any way on the withdrawal of the bid for the Muscle Shoals property but asserted that the interview as published had been approved by his father and printed with his consent. Other persons in close touch with the situation also refused to comment on the matter, asserting that any statement would have to come from Ford himself.

Washington Officials Uninformed.

(By the Associated Press)

Washington, Oct. 13. — If Henry Ford has withdrawn his bid for Muscle Shoals, as indicated by an interview published in Colliers Weekly, he has failed thus far to advise officials in Washington of his decision. Neither the White House nor the war department, to which the bid originally was submitted, has heard anything that would change the status of the proposal and none of the congressional leaders now in the capital has received any recent word from the Detroit manufacturer. Attention in Washington was attracted as much to the magazine's quotation of Ford's endorsement of President Coolidge's suggestion that an impartial commission be appointed to dispose of Muscle Shoals, as to the report of the withdrawal of the Ford [illegible]

The magazine story came as a shock to supporters of Ford's offer, who had succeeded in having the Muscle Shoals question placed on the senate calendar as the first order of business for the December session of congress. They were prepared to wage a bitter fight on the senate floor.

Offer Had Passed House.

The Ford offer already has passed the house, after being reported favorably by the house committee. Opposition to the Ford offer arose in the senate committee of agriculture. The fight against the bid was led by Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, chairman of the committee, who submitted alternative proposals providing for government ownership and operation. After long public hearings the senate committee refused to report favorably on the Ford bid and endorsed the Norris bill after it had been amended to carry optional provisions for government ownership and operation and government ownership with private operation.

The insistent demand of Ford supporters led Senator Norris to agree to lay the whole Muscle Shoals issue before the senate at the December session. Ford's offer was the only proposal providing for private ownership and operation. With the withdrawal of the Ford bid, there would remain the Norris bill, several proposals for government ownership and private operation and the administration's plan for the appointment of an impartial commission to study the Muscle Shoals problem and submit recommendations to congress.

REPARATIONS PLAN SHOWS RESULT OF WORK—DAWES

(By the Associated Press)

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 13.—Breaking his silence on the reparations settlement plan bearing his name, Charles G. Dawes, Republican candidate for vice president, opened a two-day campaign in Kentucky today with an address in which he asserted that the proposal as finally established today by the allied nations and Germany was "a workable plan," and furthermore, "will prove the foundation of an enduring and Christian peace in Europe and the world."

Discussing the reparation plan as "the experts' plan," not as the "Dawes plan," as it has come to be known, Mr. Dawes used his reference to it to draw a lesson—the lesson that settlement of the nation's economic problems in his opinion must be settled not through oratory, not through the preaching of inconsistent doctrines, and not through demagogery, but through work, thought, and honesty of mind and purpose divorced from politics.

THIRD VICTIM OF WRECK.

Binghamton, Oct. 13. — Clarence E. Woodruff, flagman, of Dunmore, Pa., died in a hospital here tonight as the result of injuries suffered when Lackawanna train No. 11 struck the rear end of a freight near New Milford, Pa., early today. Michael Kelly, Jr., 45, and Ray Osterhout, 45, both of Halstead, Pa., engineer and fireman, respectively, of a pusher engine of the freight were killed.

BOY, 17, ADMITS HE MURDERED MAN

Says He and Others were Caught Pilfering Cottages When Discovered by Caretaker

Philadelphia, Oct. 13. — Police today reported they had obtained a confession from Frank Magutski, 17, of this city, to the killing of Charles Geist, caretaker of a group of bungalows along Pergiomen creek, near Collegeville, Pa. Geist's body with a bullet through the heart was found in one of the cottages.

A blood stained piece of shirt, found in the woods near the scene of the slaying, led to the tracing of Magutski, who had been recently released from a protectory near Collegeville and had been living with other boys in the woods. He was said to have told the police that Geist surprised the boys while they were pilfering in a bungalow, and in the struggle that followed, wounded Magutski with a chisel before the latter shot him. As Magutski was being questioned at the detective bureau, another boy, arrested for robbery, was brought in. At the time of his arrest he had given his name as Walter Burr of Olliphant, Pa.

"That's not his name," Magutski cried. "He gave me the automatic with which I shot Geist. His name is Michael Petrockski." Burr finally admitted his real identity and that he had given the gun to Magutski.

HART MAY NOW WED MRS. HALL-QUEST

Wife Wins Divorce From Former British Major on Grounds of Cruelty

Cincinnati, Oct. 13.—Frederick William Hart, former major in the British army, was free tonight to marry Mrs. Shirley Knox Hall-Quest, divorced wife of Dr. Alfred Lawrence Hall-Quest, dean of the extension department of the University of Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Rosamond Hart of Cincinnati was granted a divorce from her husband here today just seven days after Mrs. Hall-Quest was released by her husband. In order that she might marry Hart, Dr. Hall-Quest was granted his divorce in Chicago, where he made every effort to conceal from the light of publicity the name of his wife's associate.

The hearing was brief. Judge Charles L. Hoffman granted Mrs. Hart a divorce on the grounds of extreme cruelty. He approved a contract entered into by Hart whereby Mrs. Hart receives $5,000 in cash and a monthly allowance of $200 during the remainder of her life. She likewise was given possession of furniture and effects located in the Hart apartment here which adjoined that formerly occupied by the Hall-Quests. This contract will automatically become void should Mrs. Hart marry again.

"SEARCH HEARTS BEFORE VOTING," STATES DAVIS

Terre Haute, Ind., Oct. 13.—Indiana voters were asked today by John W. Davis, Democratic nominee for president, "to search their hearts," for a reason before they decide what candidate they will support in November.

In speeches tonight at Terre Haute and in the afternoon at Lafayette, Crawfordsville, Green Castle and Lebanon, Mr. Davis recounted the record he saw it and pressed hard his at- of the Republican administration as tacks upon the Fordney-McCumber fairs and the administration of the tariff act, the conduct of foreign af- department of justice under former Attorney General Daugherty.

The tariff act, Mr. Davis said, "was a criminal imposition on the people of the United States."

The indictment of Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Senator LaFollette's running mate, Mr. Davis said, was "as [illegible] a crime as could be committed by any man."

ZR-3 PLUNGING OVER ATLANTIC TO LAKEHURST

Giant Zeppelin Making 50 to 55 Miles an Hour West of Azores —At Lat. 41, Long. 38 at 1:30 O'clock

AIR CONDITIONS BAD

Disturbance in Path of Craft Expected to Delay Arrival — Heavy Winds Reported North of Bermuda

Chatham, Mass., Oct. 13. — The first direct message from the ZR-3 received at the station of the Radio Corporation of America here gave the dirigible's position as lat., 41 north, long. 38 west at 1:20 a. m., eastern standard time.

The station had been in communication with the flying ship since 1 o'clock when it began sending messages to the trans-Atlantic flyers. Communication conditions were ideal, the local operators reported.

Washington, Oct. 13. — Driving westward at an average speed of from 50 to 55 miles an hour, the German-built air cruiser, ZR-3 tonight was approaching a point where they navy department momentarily was expecting to establish direct wireless communication with her.

Unofficial dispatches during the day brought word of the air cruiser's passage of the Azores sector, reviving hopes that a new record for trans-Atlantic flight might be set when she stoops to her mooring mast at Lakehurst, N. J. The arrival is predicted for Wednesday morning by naval officers detailed to keep in touch with the flight.

Reports of a moderate atmospheric disturbance in her path were declared to increase rather than diminish her chances for a speedy passage. Westerly winds of more than average force are prevailing north of Bermuda, according to the observation ships, stationed by the navy near the northern steamship lanes.

The only direct report from the ZR-3 to the navy department today was a delayed dispatch signed by Captain George W. Steele, the ranking American observer, describing the takeoff yesterday from Friedrichshafen and the decision to take the longer southerly route via the Azores and Bermuda because of the preliminary weather reports.

Long Inspection Before Acceptance.

From Bermuda the course probably will be influenced by later meterological observations but officials here are confident it will be a straight-way path for her destination, with a possibility that the ship may be taken on a short swing over New York before landing.

The ZR-3 still will be "German property" when she reports at Lakehurst, and several weeks probably will elapse before legal title will pass to the United States.

As outlined by the government officials today the procedure to be followed in her delivery is:

German government turns zeppelin over to the crews for delivery to the United States, before her departure from Friedrichshafen.

Reporting at the Lakehurst station, the American commander there gives a "custody receipt" to the German commander.

United States naval board of inspection and survey makes a thorough test of the ship and inspects her from end to end for the navy department.

On receipt of report of trial board, navy department informs state department that the ship meets specifications.

State department, acting for United States government, acknowledges receipt of ship to the German government, completing the formal acceptance.

WHEELER SAYS LA FOLLETTE CHOICE OF AVERAGE MAN

San Diego, Cal., Oct. 13.—Striking his furthest point south in California [illegible] vice presidential candidate, delivered a noon address here and then turned back to Los Angeles.

"It was the reactionary financial interests, hanging around the background of the Democratic convention in New York last July, who were successful when John W. Davis was nominated there," he said. "They had been openly represented, and equally successful in the Coolidge and Dawes nomination in the Republican convention just before. That's why there isn't any choice for the average man in this election except the support of Senator LaFollette."

THREE SECTION MEN INJURED

Silver Creek, Oct. 13. — Three Pennsylvania railroad section hands were injured, one probably fatally, when a motor car on which they were riding struck an automobile driven by George Peck, 17, of this city, at the Hanford road crossing. Peck and his mother and sister who were riding with him, were thrown clear of the wreckage and escaped with minor bruises.

GIRL DECAPITATED BY GLASS

Corning, Oct. 13. — Miss Savria Conable, 17, daughter of ex-County Commissioner Mack Conable and Mrs. Conable of Galeton, Pa., was decapitated last night when she lost control of the car she was driving near Walton, Pa., and was thrown through the windshield when the machine struck [illegible]. Two young women companions were uninjured.

SHENANDOAH READY FOR TRIP UP COAST

Girder Damaged in Landing Repaired—Electrically Heated Clothing for Men

San Diego, Cal., Oct. 13.—Refueled and reprovisioned, girders damaged in landing here repaired, and fresh helium waiting in tanks to be injected into her gas bags, the navy dirigible Shenandoah is swinging at her North Island anchor mast tonight, ready for the start at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow morning on her voyage up the Pacific coast.

All day the clank of the riveters hammer in the ship's body, working on the strained girders, vied with the exhausts of first one and then another of her six cylinder gasoline engines as each of the five was tuned up ready for the cast-off.

Lieutenant Commander Zachary Landsdowne, commander of the Shenandoah, was early on the ground today, supervising repairs, while Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of the naval bureau of aeronautics, inspected the work.

At the foot of the mooring mast is the pile of steel helium containers, each carrying a load of the compressed gas. This will be taken on the last thing in the morning before the ship sails northward. Waiting aboard for all hands, from admiral to the lowest rating seaman of the crew, are wool and fur-lined flying suits and wool-lined arctic boots for the upper air, which, even over southern California, carries a penetrating chill. It registered 35 degrees above zero in the air lane the night the Shenandoah landed here.

Each of the suits is "wired" for connection to electric plugs fixed at intervals in the body of the ship. If the wearer feels cold, he may back up to the wall, "plug in" and warm up.

Provisions taken on today consisted mainly of sandwiches, wrapped in oiled paper, and beans. In the forward gondola is the tiniest of kitchenettes and here, on a gasoline stove, the beans are warmed and occasional eggs are fried. Everything else in the food line, except coffee, is cold and, owing to the danger of fire from the stores of the gasoline aboard, smoking is forbidden. There are bunks for each officer on the ship and one for each members of the crew off duty. These are arranged in groups of four and are equipped with wool-lined sleeping bags.

ARMISTICE SIGNED IN CHINESE FIGHTING

Chekiang Troops Defending Shanghai Forced to Quit and Admit Defeat

(By the Associated Press)

Shanghai, Oct. 14. — After a final stand at Hwangtu, 15 miles west of Shanghai, the Chekiang troops defending the city against onslaughts of armies backed by the Chinese central government at last have admitted their defeat.

Foreign observers in the Sung Kiang sector reported this morning that an armistice was arranged at 5 p. m. yesterday, after which both sides ceased firing. Advance guards of the retreating Chekiang troops which arrived this morning from the Hwangtu, and Liuho sectors declared similar arrangements had been perfected there.

Apparently Chang Tse-Ping, 60-year-old battler who refused to accept the decision of the other Chekiang chiefs to surrender, was forced to give in after his final brilliant attack, in which his 4,000 troops forced some of the hottest fighting of the entire war.

LANDIS TO SIFT BRIBERY SCANDAL TO VERY BOTTOM

New York, Oct. 13. — Investigation of the bribery scandal which resulted in the suspension from baseball of Cozy Dolan and Jimmy O'Connell of the Giants, will be continued, Commissioner Landis said tonight before he left for Chicago.

The commissioner stated that all possible clues will be followed and indicated that he did not agree with the view that the attempted bribery of Sand was a "joke" engineered by older men than O'Connell.

"I have no intention of getting out of baseball and hope to witness at least three more world series," he added, in denying a statement attributed to him in Washington to the effect that either he or Ban Johnson would have to step off the diamond stage during the winter.

"LOST BATTALION" BANQUETS.

Chicago, Oct. 13.—Chicago's "lost battalion," eight survivors of the firemen who fought the great Chicago fire of 1871, held their annual meeting and banquet here tonight. Altogether, there are 11 survivors living, but two were too ill to come, and the other is in the old soldiers' home at Danville. Each of the firemen was called upon to recite his part in fighting the flames, and some of them told of battling the flames for two days without a rest and of offers of huge sums of money by frantic property owners if they would save certain buildings.

It is alleged that Porter stopped automobiles bearing Ku Klux Klan emblems and banners and removed the Klan insignia. The trooper is scheduled [illegible] at Painted Post this evening.

WE MUST FIND SOLUTION OF OUR PROBLEMS

American Sentiment Will Not Tolerate Submission of Domestic Questions to Group, Says Hughes

LEAGUE NOT NAMED

Nation Will Cooperate and Will Arbitrate Treaty Issues But Internal Matters Must Be Decided at Home

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 13.—American sentiment will "not tolerate" submission of domestic questions "to the determination of any group of powers," Secretary of State Hughes declared here tonight in a campaign address [illegible] John W. Davis, Democratic presidential nominee, of administration foreign policies.

Mr. Hughes did not mention the proposed League of Nations protocol by name, but he laid stress on the question of jurisdiction over domestic issues which, at the behest of Japan, occupied so large a place in the recent discussion at Geneva. He has not previously referred to the Geneva developments, directly or indirectly, in any public address.

"Recently," the secretary said, "the question has been discussed of the appropriateness of investing a group of powers with authority to deal with domestic questions, not questions arising under treaties by which parties have limited their rights, but with questions within the competency of a nation as to which it has not limited its right. The sentiment of this country, I repeat, would not tolerate this submission of such questions which pertain to our policy to the determination of any group of powers. It would not tolerate the making of an agreement for such submission. We would not be willing to enter any organization through which a group of powers would be in a position to intervene or attempt to determine our policies for us.

Willing to Cooperate.

"We have favored, and do favor, the submission to arbitral of judicial tribunals of international questions, that is, the decision of questions arising under our treaties and under international law, because these questions are to be resolved by principles which are commonly accepted. But when we are outside the domain of our treaties and questions of international law, and are dealing with our own domestic questions, we reserve our freedom to determine our own policies.

"So far as cooperation is concerned in humanitarian endeavors we now have it and on a considerable scale. We are glad of that cooperation. As I have said, our form of cooperation is suited to the fact."

Mr. Hughes led up to his declaration by saying that "if Mr. Davis' criticism has any significance, or points to any definite line of policy, it means that he would like to renew the controversy over the league."

"With the disastrous obstinacy of the last Democratic administration," he continued, "Mr. Davis apparently would rather have controversy than achievement. Mr. Davis may be spoiling for a fight, but the Democratic party has taken away ammunition and left him nothing but empty shells. Mr. Davis, as an individual, has a full right to demand that this government enter the league, but he has no such right as a Democratic presidential candidate, for the Democratic party has taken a back track on that proposition. It has taken note of the sentiment of the country.

Says Democratic Party Crumbling.

"We have said that the people of this country would never tolerate the submission to any power or group of powers of the determination of our domestic questions. If we are to cooperate, we must be permitted to cooperate without the sacrifice of our right to determine our policies."

Mr. Hughes said the dominating [illegible] was: "Shall the third party be permitted to prevent the election of President Coolidge?"

"All the indications point to the breakdown of the campaign of the Democratic party," he declared. "It is still making its spellbinders' appeals, but [illegible]. The issue is now between President Coolidge and the [illegible]. The issue is [illegible] election."

He asked the selection of Bryan as his running mate [illegible] Mr. Davis "shook the confidence of the country in Mr. Davis as a political leader" and was one of the chief reasons why the Democratic campaign "has failed so miserably."

ST. PAUL TAKES TITLE

Wins Ninth and Deciding Game of Junior World Series From Baltimore Orioles, 6 to 3—Merritt Master in All But Seventh Inning.

St. Paul, Oct. 13.—Premier honors in the minor league baseball world rest today with St. Paul, achieved through victory today over Baltimore in the deciding game of the junior world series.

Battling through to their third straight triumph, the Saints humbled the International league champions, 6 to 3, giving them five victories to the Orioles' four in the post-season fray.

Each team made nine hits, but the splendid work of Howard Merritt, the Saints' slow curve southpaw, kept the Oriole hits scattered except in the seventh, when they scored three runs on Maisel's homer.

That was only a threat, however, for the American association title holders had a five-run lead at the time, and the damage had no serious effect as Merritt held the Orioles runless in the last two innings.

Home runs by Charley Dressen and Leo Dixon in the early innings gave the Saints their second and third runs and proved a measure of comfort and stimulus in the later innings when the Oriole menace was greatest.

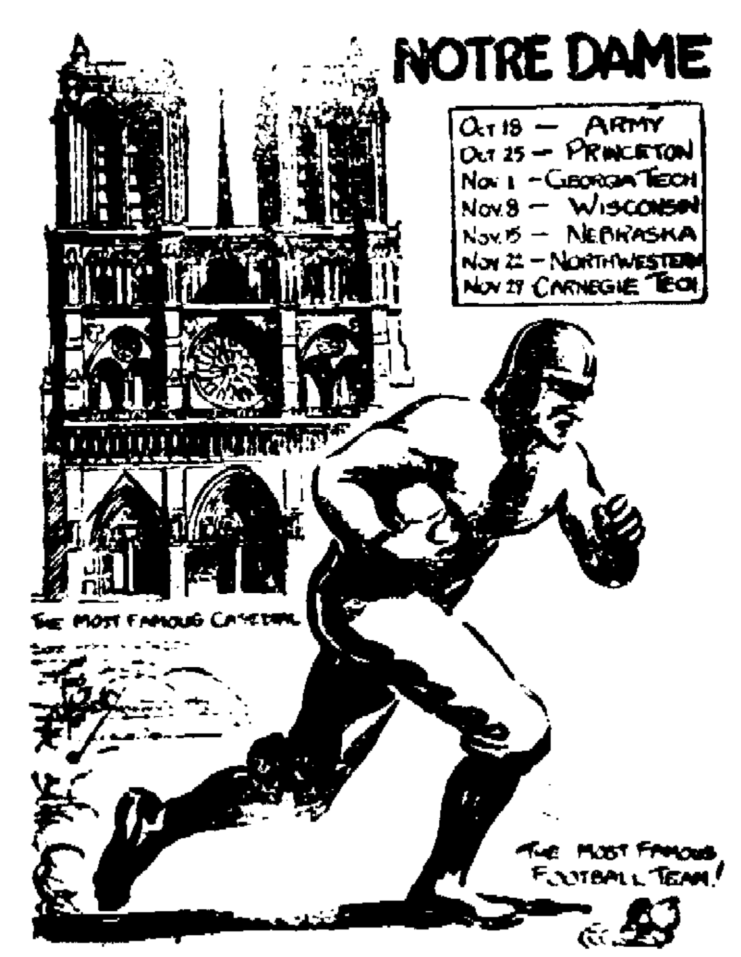
Strength and Beauty

By Feg Murray



The Notre Dame cathedral and the Notre Dame football team are both noted for their rugged strength and delicate finish. The cathedral has wonderful lines—the football team a wonderful line and a wonderful backfield—and a tough schedule. Beginning this Saturday with the Army game, the football team of the little college of Notre Dame faces one of the toughest schedules that any gridiron aggregation ever met. As last year, she meets the Army in New York, Princeton at Princeton, and Georgia Tech. at home on successive Saturdays.

Then instead of taking a week-end off, or engaging some "easy pickings" to rest up, Notre Dame goes to Madison to play Wisconsin, which is going to be some [illegible]. Immediately following the Badger game, the Irish entertain the Nebraska Cornhuskers on the Notre Dame [illegible]. Tea will not be served. This is one game of all games that Notre Dame wants to win. These Nebraskans [illegible] the South Benders' clean slate last year with a surprising defeat, and Notre Dame is out for revenge.

After that little party Northwestern and Carnegie Tech, with perhaps a post-season game with Southern California in Los Angeles. How is that for a tough [illegible]

STORY OF AN ALPINE SUMMER

Miss Elizabeth Brownell of Oneonta, Honor Student at University of Prague, Writes The Star of a Mid-Season Tour in Central Europe.

Editor Star: To put six weeks, four countries, and the Alps into one letter is quite task, but to add to these the assembly of the League of Nations makes an impossible one. So if you will allow, I should like to tell about a summer's adventure in the middle of Europe, and write again about the Assembly of the League of Nations.

Bavaria, Austria, Switzerland and of course Czechoslovakia were on my happen chance itinerary. Equipped with hiking suit, rucksack and Baedeker, I set out for Bavaria the last of July. After a night and morning in delightful old Nuremberg with its high gabled houses, red roofs, castle, cathedral and mediaeval atmosphere we proceeded to Munich. Here students met us and showed us our night's lodgings, for 'we' were delegates to an international conference of the European Student Relief organization. About sixty of the delegates from many countries were gaily entertained that evening in the Kunstlerhaus (Artists' House), with speeches of welcome, and with music and dances by students in the picturesque costumes of old Munich or of the modern German Youth Movement.

The next morning a special train took us down into the mountains of upper Bavaria to Schloss Elmau, a beautiful secluded castle hotel built by Johannes Muller, the famous religionist. It is set in a charming small valley with green hills to the north and a tremendous barrier of rocky peaks to the south. Here were met together 130 people from 30 countries, speaking 22 languages, to discuss the future of this great organization which, started by the World Student Christian Federation, has literally saved the lives of thousands of students in poverty-stricken post-war Europe, and for whose work American students, along with others, contributed several million dollars. Interesting to note, all but two of the delegates spoke or understood either German or English and the meetings were carried on in these two languages. The first two days were given over to reports as to actual conditions in the various countries. We heard of the tendency toward international indifference of students in America and England; of the over-production of professionals in Holland and Czechoslovakia, where educated people cannot find work; of the distress of Russian and Ukrainian refugees everywhere; of Greece, where one-fourth of the population are refugees; of the struggle of education in the Soviet republics, without food, without books and apparatus, without academic freedom. Then three commissions were formed to discuss carefully "The University Ideal," "The Question of Russia and the Refugees," and "The Future of the E. S. R." Naturally there were many differences of opinion in all these matters. Hindu and Greek, German and Hungarian, Pole and Scot, Swiss and Czech, did not always have similar ideas. But after a week of hard work done in a spirit of co-operation, as these people from all corners of the globe took hands and sang the world student song, "Gaudeamus Igitur," one felt with a thrill the possibility of the Federation motto, "Ut omnes unum sint." But it was not all work. We had a mountain climb of sufficient excitement in the way of danger, chamois, snow, Alpine roses and view. One evening we danced [illegible] and square dances that are real exercise and great fun. Another night different nationalities gave characteristic songs or stunts and we Americans favored them with "Turkey in the Straw."

A Trip Through Austria.

Mr. and Mrs. Rose, Canadians from the Polish Y. M. C. A., invited me to accompany them into Austria, and the second adventure started. One night in Innsbruck where the mountains seem almost to touch overhead, one night in Worgl, and three days in Salzburg were enjoyed before our walking trip began. Salzburg is said to be the third most beautiful city in Europe after Naples and Constantinople, and indeed it lives up to its reputation. Red-roofed white houses and white baroque towers nestle along the Salzach river between wooded hills and under the towering fortress of Hohensalzburg. To the north stretches a green plain toward Barvaria; to the south, east, and west are near and distant, great and small ranges of mountains. We visited the castle, built about 1500, which offered all the features of a fairy story stronghold, moat, drawbridge, dungeons, mysterious stairways and lordly halls. We visited Catacombs in the rock cliff beneath the castle which were used in 477, ancient Gothic and modern baroque churches, quaint restaurants in low vaulted cellars, and the homes of Mozart and Paracelsus. Surprises began here when I met by chance a college friend, and a Czech acquaintance.

From Salzburg we made a circular tour through the Salzkammergut (whose very name is a delicious morsel, don't you think). After a short train ride, we put our packs on our backs, grasped spiked sticks firmly in hand and started out. Our way led [illegible]ed hills that were somewhat reminiscent of the Catskills. It was a peaceful road along a clear mountain stream, past tiny villages of whitewashed houses, past fields where men and women were busily piling hay and grains onto tall racks for drying, and past a long procession of men and horses, on their way to the horse fair. We were as much a curiosity to them as they to us, but usually they greeted us with a "Gruss Gott." There were lots of excuses for stopping to remove our burdens for a few minutes. Here was a fine vista, here we must eat a bit of bread and "Ementaler" cheese, there was a good place to cool our feet in the river, and "do let's peek into this tiny old church." After about fifteen miles a tired trio dropped into the last free rooms in Abtenau, under the eaves of a small "Gasthaus," but with glorious views of the Tennengebirge which [illegible] all rose and gold in the setting sun.

The next morning, after taking a snapshot of the maid washing clothes in the watering trough, we walked for [illegible] hours along the valley. A final rest in the brook, then 2,400 feet straight up into the sun! And maybe those rucksacks weren't warm! Here as everywhere in the Tyrol we were [illegible] by wayside memorials to So and So who fell over the cliff to his death — Please say a prayer for the poor departed spirit." Finally we did find that the [illegible] had a top, although we began to doubt it long before we got there. Then the panorama stretched before us, mountains, mountains everywhere, rocky, snowy, [illegible] wooded. The special sight was of the Dachstein glacier toward the east, across a deep narrow valley in the basin of which a tiny lake glowed like a dark green jewel. As we plunged down into this valley we watched the setting sun play its lights over snow fields, massive rock silhouettes and dark forests.

The following two days we walked in the rain or under low clouds, thus missing many views. But the bad weather made us look for nearer attractions. We noticed the innumerable wild flowers, especially the fragrant little wild cyclamen with its gaily flaring rose purple petals. We enjoyed watching the people in their Tyrolese dress; the men and boys wear short leather breeches, usually embroidered, brightly decorated suspenders over white shirts, little green hats with the waving brown "shaving brushes" as we we called them, rough woolen 'golf' stockings and great hobnailed boots. The most amusing feature were socks covering just the calf of the legs, with bare feet or low shoes. The women and girls wear beflowered gingham dresses of very full skirts and tight waists. We passed Hallstatt, a [illegible] lake at the foot of Dachstein, the famous resorts Bad Aussee, Alt Aussee, Bad Ischl (old Franz Josef's summer dwelling), and came to St. Wolfgang. On Sunday we climbed the famous Schafberg, only to find ourselves, alas, in an impenetrable cloud. Fortunately we had planned to spend the night on the summit and at four in the morning we awoke to see the light just breaking over a vast stretch of ragged horizon line. The experience of a sunrise from Schafberg, 5,500 feet high, watching billowing seas of clouds making small islands of dark mountain tops, waiting as they gradually fade away to reveal seven blue green lakes and hundreds of lovely valleys—is an experience not soon to be forgotten. The next night brought us to the end of a perfect day and a perfect trip.

Sonntagberg in Styria.

We gathered our suitcases in Salzberg again, my friends left me at Linz and I continued on to Sonntagberg. The next week was spent on this mountain in Styria, from whose summit one catches a glimpse of the Danube in the broad plain to the north, and of the Dolomite ranges toward the south. For hundreds of years this has been a shrine, from the time when a pagan temple stood on its ridge. Christianity changed it into a Catholic shrine, which gained great importance when by a miracle the Turkish invaders were turned back at its sacred spring, and now its imposing baroque church attracts pilgrims from many miles. For the last three years the Austrian students have used the monastery hotel as a home for poor students who work on the farm during vacations, and as a hotel for foreign friends who thus help finance the Academic Welfare Work. Beside the regular Austrian guests, there were an [illegible] English working girls, two Oxford students, two German students, an Austrian girl student, and myself. We spent five pleasant days together, discussing everything from Catholicism to coin collecting, Greek literature to the German revolution, poetry to politics; learning the English, American and German languages; visiting neighboring mediaeval villages; and found the land of Styria quite as romantic as its name sounds.

A Week in Vienna.

Another week found me in Vienna, staying in the fine Studentenheim, which was given to the Austrian students by the American and Canadian Y. M. C. A. Vienna, while far from its former prosperity and life, has recovered to a great extent from the awful poverty and distress of the after war period. Parks, restaurants, and theatres were by no means crowded but there were many Americans — "you can tell them a mile off"—and other be-Baedekered tourists, and everyone seemed busy and cheerful. Prices are somewhat less in Austria than in other European countries now. The city is very beautiful, with magnificent St. Stephan's cathedral in the heart of the old town, with the Ring, a broad boulevard encircling the Inner City on which are the extensive palaces of emperors, museums, City hall, opera, university, parks and monuments of Maria Theresa, Goethe, etc.

Near the impressive City hall rise the lacy white towers of the perfect new Gothic Votive church, which alas was not so perfect in strength as in style, and services cannot be held there for fear of parts of the roof falling upon pious heads! The Art-History museum contains some very fine pieces of the Italian and northern schools, for example, Titian's Gypsy Madonna and Rembrandt's Mother. We also visited the unique collection of original sketches, etchings and wood cuts in the Albertina. Schonbrunn was a little disappointing, for it has evidently been somewhat neglected and the high hedge walls of the extensive gardens looked rather 'moth-eaten.' But one could imagine its former glory when Napoleon came to call, for instance. At the Volksoper one evening we heard a splendid production of "The Flying Dutchman," and another night the Philharmonic orchestra gave a Beethoven concert in the Burggarten. There is nothing like hearing music in the very surroundings and atmosphere in which it was written.

Off For Geneva.

It was not without regret that I left Vienna and Austria for Geneva. The Austrians are a kindly, cordial people. They certainly have been through untold suffering, and are still in great poverty with the unanswered problem of the future; for all that is left to them is chiefly untillable mountain lands. These are of course wonderfully beautiful, and as the people seem already to have the gift of hospitality, clean attractive "Gasthauser," and excellent food, it would seem that their best chance is in developing a tourist trade of foreigners such as to a great extent supports Switzerland. It is astonishing what differences are immediately visible upon entering a new country. Not only the fact that I had five francs to a dollar instead of 70,000 crowns, nor that the porters wore long blue smocks instead of coated uniforms, but the exceeding cleanliness of third class cars, the courtesy of conductors who spoke not only French, German and Italian, but usually English as well, and the unique architecture of the chalets, proclaimed the land of the Swiss. Passing through the northern section of green hills, I stopped one night in lovely Lucerne. Here Dame Chance gave me another chuckle. A French girl asked me directions, and while (with the aid of my map) we hunted her hotel, she said that she was on her way to Prague to study this next year! Geneva seemed almost like getting back to the U. S. A.; so many Americans, right hand traffic and many Buicks and Dodges, up to date conveniences, and eatables unobtainable in Prague. It was long since I had had cornflakes, olives, u-all-no mints or peanut butter! The city is gay and beautiful, resting beside blue Lac Leman at the head of the Rhone river. Occasionally only did the weather permit a view of noble serene Mont Blanc. Geneva gave a choice of natural and human heights and this time I took the latter, attending the Fifth Assembly of the League of Nations. If you have survived this lengthy effusion, perhaps you will let me write again about the great work of this organization and of the International Labor office.

I returned to Prague via Neuchatel with its glorious lake and panorama of the everlasting snows, Zurich, modern and attractive, the tiny country of Lichtenstein, between Switzerland and Austria, which I had passed through twice before without knowing that it existed, and Linz. Finally came an all day ride in a slow train through southern Bohemia, with its peasants working in the neat fields that divide the rolling country into many colored patches, and with its language, beside which German is as simple as a first grade primer. Prague is just beginning to put on its autumn colors and glows in the warm September sun, its towers piercing through the perpetual blue mist that hangs like a veil over castle, river, and houses. Let me end with a bit of Shakespearean English that word mist reminds me of. One of the Germans in Sonntagberg described the cloud-hidden Alps as "Hiding like frightful madames behind their veils!"

Very truly yours,
Elizabeth R. Brownell.

AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT

WOMAN
YOU CAN GET STRAIGHTER, LONGER BALLS WITH THEM.

Should women use light or heavy clubs?

Answered by
GLENNA COLLETT

Former National women's champion and present Canadian women's champion.

Women should use light clubs, if for no other reason than that most women have not the strength to use heavy ones. A light club can be swung much faster and easier, thus enabling you to get a straighter, if not longer, ball, with more power in the stroke. With a heavy club you are liable to top or shank a shot, simply because you cannot get a clubhead to the ball fast enough and your body will be away ahead of the shot. A light mashie or mashie-niblick hit firmly will put as much backspin on a pitch shot to a green as any grooved club. Don't press an iron—it's much easier to play a mashie-iron lightly than a mashie that has to be forced.

AGED NATIVE OF EDMESTON

Mrs. Amelia M. Shaw Succumbs to Infirmities of Age; Funeral Sunday—Scott-Cady Nuptials—Other Items.

Edmeston, Oct. 13. — The death of Mrs. Amelia M. Shaw occurred Thursday at the home of her son, J. S. Shaw, with whom she had lived for the past four years. She was 87 years old and death was due to the infirmities of age. Practically all of her married life had been passed in this community and because of her sweet, helpful, Christian character she was beloved by all who knew her. She was a member of the Baptist church and, as long as health would permit, was a regular attendant at its services. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon at the home of her son, Rev. D. H. Woodward officiating; interment was made in the Union cemetery.

Scott-Cady Wedding.

A quiet wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Cady Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when their daughter, Wilma, became the bride of George Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Scott of Burlington. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. William Shilletto of Burlington, Mr. Shilletto acting as best man. Miss Carolyn Rutherford of Edmeston played the wedding march while the wedding party took their places in a doorway which was banked with gladioli and from which white bells were suspended. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. H. Woodard in the presence of the immediate families. Following a delicious dinner the happy couple left for New York city, where they will spend their honeymoon.

Vicinity School Fairs.

Superintendent Floyd Thayer was busy with school fairs last week, the Burlington fair being Thursday and the Edmeston High school fair Friday. At the former the prizes for general school exhibits were given as follows: 1st, Burlington Flats; 2d, West Burlington, and 3rd, Briar Hill. The prizes in project work were awarded as follows: Poultry—white leghorns, Vaughn Lape; corn, Thomas Poling; beans, Stewart West; towel, Helen Nichols. There were several other prizes for non-project work and athletic events. At the Edmeston fair the 1st prize on floats was won by Miss Dunster's history class, the Cherry Valley massacre being represented; 2nd, Colonial days, by the fifth and sixth grades; 3d, Dixie land, by Miss Brady's room. The awards for general rural school exhibits were as follows: 1st, South Edmeston; 2nd, Carr district; 3d, West Edmeston. The exhibits in both project and non-project work were very good and special mention should be given each one, if space permitted.

UNADILLA DEFEATS WALTON.

High School Boys Win at Football Saturday, Score 6-0.

Unadilla, Oct. 13. — The football game Saturday afternoon with Walton resulted in a score of 6-0, in favor of the home team. The next game will be on the home grounds Saturday, October 11, with Oxford. The benefit to the boys is not so much in winning as in the healthful outdoor exercise, and the fact that a good standing in school work and regular habits of eating, resting and sleeping are required as well as abstinence from tobacco and injurious habits.

FORMERLY OF PORTLANDVILLE

Mrs. Samantha Slade Dies at W. R. C. Home at Oxford.

Portlandville, Oct. 13. — Mrs. Samantha A. Slade died at the W. R. C. home at Oxford on Saturday, October 11, at the age of eighty years. The cause of her death was chronic heart disease. Burial will be in Pine Grove cemetery Wednesday, October 15, at 10:30 a. m.

Mrs. Slade was for many years a respected resident of this place. She was the last of the immediate family of William Whitford, who resided here for many years. About eight years ago she gave up her home here for a home with the Pentecostal mission near Binghamton, the proceeds of the sale of her place going to the mission for her support. She has had a home at Oxford for two or three years. The body will be in care of the McCrum Undertaking company of Oneonta. Services were held at Oxford and burial will be in the family plot here.

Supper a Success.

The amount of the receipts at the Ladies' Aid supper, held last Wednesday evening, were $35.00, which was very gratifying to those having the work in charge, as the evening was very rainy. The society wish to thank all for their kindly assistance, especially those who came from a distance.

World's Service Meeting.

Many from here were in attendance at the World's Service meeting held at the First Methodist Episcopal church, Oneonta, on Wednesday. All report a most interesting and beneficial service and greatly enjoyed by all.

Correction.

Instead of selling the Low farm, as previously stated, Frank VanEtten sold the farm known as the William Seegar place to Harris Crandall and is moving his family to the Low farm on the east side of the river.

WORST FORM OF INDIGESTION

Disappeared Under the Fruit Treatment—"Fruit-a-tives"

People are often amazed when they hear of a case like Mrs. Hammond's. Yet it is the most natural thing in the world to eat plenty of fruit for indigestion, Dyspepsia and other stomach troubles—and to try and overcome Constipation and Biliousness by eating figs and prunes.

"Fruit-a-tives", made of the intensified juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes combined with tonics, will relieve stomach and bowel troubles.

Mrs. E. C. Hammond, 218 Sykes St., Groton, N.Y. says: "Last February, I started using "Fruit-a-tives" for Indigestion and Constipation of the worst kind. "Fruit-a-tives" entirely relieved me and I would not be without your valuable "Fruit-a-tives" in the home".

IS CALLED PAL-O-VIN

The Sherman Pharmacy has secured the exclusive right to sell and advertise "Pal-O-Vin" in this city and first shipment has been received. The reader perhaps has read about this remarkable preparation which has relieved so many of the ailments described here. Many people suffered so long their cases seemed chronic but were astonished when relief came to them in a few days after using this more modern and powerful medicine. No one need suffer much longer.

With their usual enterprise these local druggists saw the new medicine's possibilities which sustains their reputation for always being the first to sell the latest and best in medicines and drug store needfuls. The store is squarely in back of every bottle of this medicine with positive guarantee of money back to any customer, not delighted, pleased, gratified and relieved to their entire satisfaction.

Results Wonderful.

In other cities druggists have been amazed at results their customers secured by taking Pal-O-Vin. Statements from chemists, experts, pharmacists, and users prove every claim made for it. People went wild about it in Washington, D. C. The statements of a couple folks from there are printed in the columns on the right. Read what they say. The same story comes from other cities so it is needless for a person to be sickly, run down, or bothered with ailments so easily gotten rid of. The printed statements of hundreds of men and women prove the cases printed on the right are no exceptions.

One druggist writes: "I have sold Pal-O-Vin a couple months with most unusual results for customers. Many relieved of troubles they had doctored for years. The formula is one all we druggists can sincerely recommend and now that they've strengthened and improved it so much [illegible] quick, much more effectively and even in the most obstinate, discouraging cases. It is without doubt the last word so far in remedies for the stomach, digestion, appetite, liver, blood and vitality. Besides it's a pleasure to sell a trustworthy, proven product and we guarantee it."

NOTE: Pal-O-Vin is a certified product of America's foremost Pharmaceutical Laboratory. It is the final result of several years experimentation, study and research by a staff of experts. Each bottle of Pal-O-Vin is guaranteed to do the work claimed for it or store will refund every penny. In addition to the store guarantee, each bottle bears name of Marshall King Laboratories, Philadelphia which we all know insures highest quality and purity in medicines. (See formula and directions on the bottles.

Everyone in town is invited to visit The Sherman Pharmacy and let the manager or a clerk tell them more about Pal-O-Vin. Read what users say in the articles on the right. Note the ailments these users had and how completely and nicely Pal-O-Vin did the work. It will do the same thing for anyone else, and with severe winter weather coming on we should all put our systems in shape to ward off and fight the dangers of cold wet weather. HE ALWAYS FELT ABOUT HALF SICK WITH INDIGESTION

NOTHING EVER TASTED GOOD LOST APPETITE, NERVOUS, COULDN'T SLEEP.

HE TOOK NEW REMEDY FEELS SPLENDID NOW

"I had indigestion and all the symptoms that go with it. I lost my appetite, so when mealtime came around I seldom ate much. My stomach just gave out on me and lacking nourishment I got sallow, weak, nervous and irritable. Nights I'd stumble home too weak to be cheerful. Sometimes those weak spells would strike me in the midst of my work. Everybody knew I was ailing and though dog tired nights I was so nervous I couldn't sleep," declared Chester S. Fowler, who is now widely enthusiastic about this new remedy, Pal-O-Vin.

"Friends of mine were helped so much by "Pal-O-Vin" I slipped around to the drug store to learn more about it. They told me amazing stories of what it was doing, and the very first few doses seemed to help me wonderfully. By the time I had taken the first bottle I felt so much better I was astonished. After the second or third bottle I was looking, eating, sleeping and feeling so good friends of mine stopped me often and commented on how good I was looking. I began getting a good rest every night and I began to eat the rations of two men with the result that soon I was feeling great. Since then I've recommended Pal-O-Vin to several friends who weren't sick but needed a good bracing tonic and nobody knows how spry, frisky, full of pep and energy they can feel until they get hold of a couple bottles of Pal-O-Vin," continued Mr. Fowler, one of the best known men in the Nation's Capital. Read what another user says on the right and in article below.

HAD NERVOUS INDIGESTION MANY YEARS

LADY SUFFERED MISERY AFTER MEALS—FOOD UPSET HER STOMACH SOME TIMES.

TOOK NEW REMEDY TROUBLES ALL GONE

"Two bottles of this wonderful new medicine the druggists are introducing did me so much good I hope everyone will give it a trial for if they have nervous indigestion and troubles like that, then they surely need sympathy," declared Mrs. Charles Breckel who suffered years with this distressing stomach condition.

"For years I had to be particular what I ate and even then food would upset me and disturb my stomach for hours after a meal. You can imagine how good it feels to be able to eat as much as you want of anything once more. If I ate before going to bed I would tumble, toss, dream and have cramps and nightmares the entire night, but now I eat any old thing even after the theatre and sleep just like a child the whole night through. I can sympathize with people who have nervous indigestion because I had it for years and know what it means so when I tell a person Pal-O-Vin drives such troubles away, I am not stretching the truth one bit. It really does what they advertise it to do and that is more than one can say of most remedies. It works like magic," continued Mrs. Breckel, who has been a resident of Washington, D. C., for many years.

One glance at the formula of Pal-O-Vin is enough for any doctor, druggist, or person familiar with medicine. Then when you realize that by new processes the effectiveness of this preparation has been greatly increased—it is no wonder users get results so quickly. Another important advantage that Pal-O-Vin has over old time weaker preparations is its pleasant taste. It contains as a base, select California wine and agrees perfectly with the weakest stomach. Read what users say about it on the left and below. Then drop in at the store and let us tell you more about Pal-O-Vin. The Sherman Pharmacy.

AVOID HUNTING ACCIDENTS.

At a time when the open season for hunting is here or is about to commence in New York, a few simple rules for the handling of fire arms, issued by Llewellyn Legge, chief game protector for the state of New York, will be of general interest. They were sent out from WGY of Schenectady on Saturday, and while they doubtless reached thousands who listened in on the radio, there are many more who did not receive them in that way, or who if they did will be pleased to have them in printed form for reference. These rules, which have for their first principle "safety first," have been submitted to many experienced hunters, and after their approval have been submitted to the public at large. In substance they are:

1. Hunters should never carry loaded guns in automobiles or vehicles.
2. In loading a gun you should never have it pointed in the direction of your companion.
3. When afield hunting birds, the hunter should keep abreast and should at all times know the location of his companion.
4. In climbing over stone walls, fences, etc., the hunter should break his gun or unload it.
5. A bird quartering to the right should never be fired at by the hunter on the extreme left. Vice versa.
6. Never leave a loaded gun standing against a tree or lying on the ground where the dogs are apt to come in contact with them.
7. In conversation with companions afield, always keep the gun pointed in the opposite direction.
8. In handing a gun to a person for inspection, be sure it is unloaded.
9. Never shoot in the direction of your companions, because you consider yourself a good shot. You are taking a dangerous chance.
10. Carry your gun pointed downward to the left, and if there is a hunter in the party who shoots left-handed, he should be placed at the extreme right.

One of the great difficulties that experienced hunters and guides have to contend with is the young and inexperienced hunter who becomes excited, shoots in all directions and at everything that moves. This is a very common thing among deer hunters. They become afflicted with what is known as the "buck fever" and shoot first and look afterwards.

One of the most commendable laws that was ever enacted to overcome this, and which has greatly lessened [illegible] was the prohibiting of the shooting of doe deer and allowing only buck deer to be taken with horns not less than three inches in length.

And, in conclusion, Mr. Legge urges everybody to be careful with camp fires and matches. One tree will make a million matches, and one match can burn a million trees.

DRY RECIPE

The governor of Pennsylvania, seeking better enforcement of the prohibition laws, urges three things particularly:

First: Speedy trial and sentence. Speedy punishment, he maintains, is the greatest deterrent of crime.

Second: Prison sentences instead of fines. To a bootlegger or brewer, "a fine is merely a kind of license to keep on breaking the law."

Third: Full use of the injunction to close up places where the law is violated. This makes it more difficult for offenders to find places to carry on their illegal business.

These lines of action are all in the power of prosecutors and judges, and imply that the police authorities are doing their duty. With zeal in finding offenders and bringing them into court, and the courts acting on these suggestions, enforcement would certainly improve, in any state.

THE GUIDE POST—

BY
Henry and Tertius Van Dyke

FAIR TREES AND FLOWING WATERS.

Thus was it fair in its greatness, in the length of its branches: for its root was by many waters.—Ezek. 31 7.

The hasteful folly of man creates ugliness and calls it civilization.

Nowhere is this insanity more clearly shown than in forgetting the vital relation between fair trees and flowing waters.

Cut away or burn off the forests and the little rivers will be ruined.

The secret springs among the mossy rocks and tangled roots will be dried up.

The brooks will waste away.

The strong and steady streams will be changed into wild torrents of destruction in time of flood, and dreary beds of mud and stone in time of drouth.

Nor can the forests flourish without water at their roots. Nothing could be more gloomy than the barren slopes of the Saguenay, where a sweeping fire of carelessness has destroyed the trees, and rain has washed away the soil, and the granite hills stand naked in desolation.

God has made some deserts, which have their own beauty.

But man has made more, and every one of them is ugly.

A good man says the Psalm, is like a tree planted by the streams of water.

IS NOT A CANDIDATE

Hon. Charles Smith Declines Reelection as Director of Federal Reserve Bank.

A circular issued last week by the officers of the Federal Reserve bank, second district, announces that the 510 banks composing Group 3 of the bank, will during the present year elect two members of the board of directors of the Federal Reserve bank aforesaid, nominations being made on or before November 10, and the polls of election closing on December 1. One of these directors must be an officer or director of a member bank, and the other cannot be an officer, director or employe of any bank, but must be actively engaged in some industrial pursuit.

The directors whose terms expire are Hon. Charles Smith, president of the Citizens' National Bank and Trust company of Oneonta, and Frank L. Stevens, who is the industrial representative. Both have declined to serve again, and accordingly neither name will be on the list of nominees which will be sent to the banks.

Mr. Smith has for six years been a director of this most important of financial institutions in the United States, next to the national treasury, and that his services have been appreciated is the testimony of President Strong and all his associates on the board. He feels, however, that his increasing duties as president of the home bank preclude a further continuance in a position which necessitated a weekly journey to New York. Accordingly he declines again to be a candidate for a directorate in which he has for so long a period given complete satisfaction.

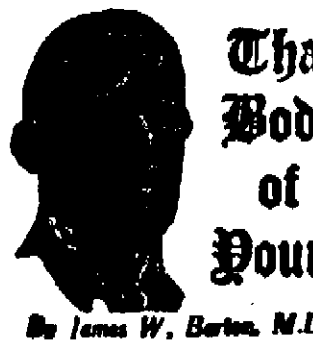
SKELETON OF IRISH ELK

Willsboro, Oct. 13. — While clearing a swamp near this village, a gang of men unearthed a skeleton resembling that of a moose but said to be much larger, with horns resembling the so-called Irish elk of pre-historic times.

The skeleton was found deep beneath an old stump and has aroused great interest in this section. It is believed more skeletons are lying beneath the muck of the swamp and that the find may prove of great importance.



That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

OUTBURSTS OF TEMPER

You have heard the expression, "He got so mad that he turned red, then blue, and actually had a paralytic stroke from it."

Is this true?

Yes, many a paralytic stroke has followed a fit of anger, but the anger was not the cause of the stroke.

Everything was ready, all ready, as it were, and the anger was the match that started the fire.

Why?

Because the rush of blood to the face and head was so violent, that it burst the little blood vessel or vessels and caused the trouble.

You see any violent emotion can raise the blood pressure. This is the reason that a physician will often chat in a friendly manner with a patient during a physical examination.

When he sees that the patient is excited or worried, he allays his feelings by asking him about his work or his hobby.

Now what about anger when a person is not old, has good strong vessels, and is not even sick?

Well, repeated outbursts can raise [illegible] high pressure thus repeated can actually injure the walls of the blood vessels.

What does this mean?

That you'll grow old sooner, because you are making your blood vessels older.

There is another point also.

These repeated outbursts of temper not only affect the blood vessels but the whole nervous mechanism.

This means that the stomach juices will be lessened or delayed in their action, the liver and pancreas will be given a blow that partially stuns them, insofar as their activities are concerned.

The heart and lungs will work faster or irregularly.

In other words the outburst of anger creates a temporary partial paralysis, and every organ is affected accordingly.

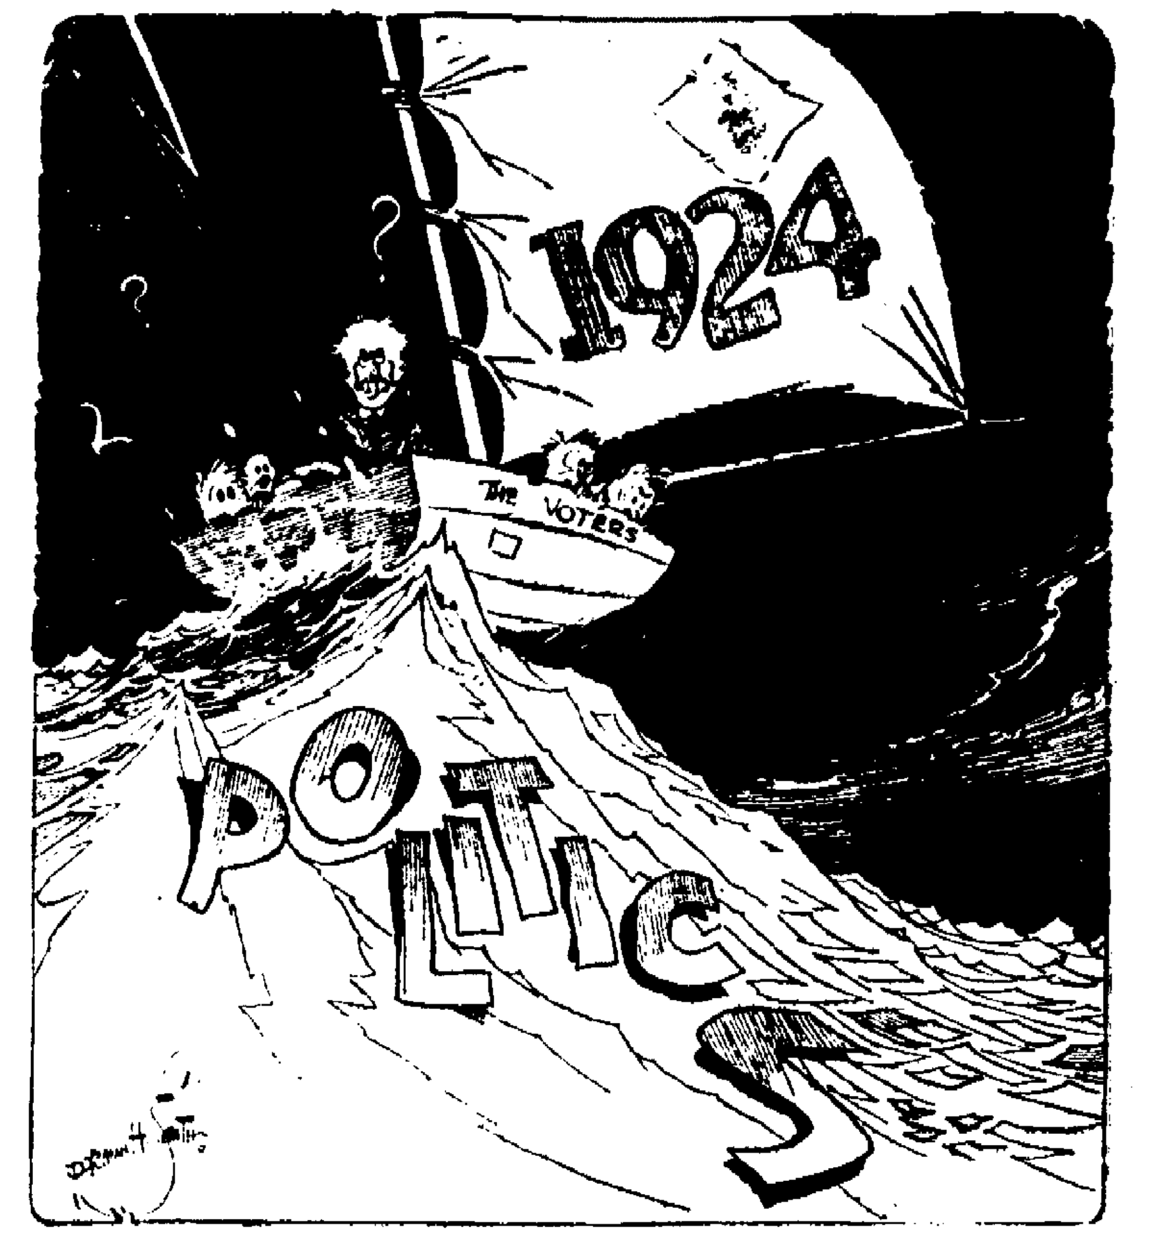
Sometimes there are physical conditions underlying these fits of temper. Bad teeth or other infection can cause one who has always had an even temper, to become almost a bear in his disposition.

If you have always been given to outbursts of anger, you can expect to get old early [illegible].

If you have had a [illegible] and [illegible] getting angry frequently, [illegible] to try and locate the cause.

We have a small quantity of very fancy peaches at [illegible]man's grocery. advt 2t

COURAGE, SAILORS—THE STORM WILL SOON BE OVER



STATE SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Representatives of 6,000 Schools to Attend Sixty-Ninth Annual Convention Opening in Albany Wednesday.

Albany, Oct. 13. — The 69th annual New York State Sunday School convention will be held in this city October 15, 16 and 17 with delegates representing 6,000 schools in attendance. The largest attendance in the history of the association is anticipated and arrangements have been made for the use of six of the city's largest churches and the armory during the convention.

The meeting is expected to develop into a three-day "Church-School University," in which workers in the various departments of Sunday school labor will be able to specialize for the period of the convention in his or her own particular line of work.

Some of the best known of the religious leaders of the country will attend the convention and will address various meetings. These include Dr. Walter S. Athearn, Boston; Sherwood Eddy, New York; Dr. A. W. Beaven, Rochester; Miss Nancy-Lee Frayser, Louisville, Ky.; Dr. Daniel A. Poling, New York; Wayne B. Wheeler, Washington [illegible] York; Dr. A. Ray Petty, New York; Dr. Henry Edward Tralle, New York; Rev. Clinton Wunder, Rochester, and others.

According to Dr. Joseph Clarke, superintendent of the State Sunday School association, the organization will, during the convention, take action favoring law enforcement, especially as it applies to the enforcement of the Volstead act at a law enforcement rally to be held October 16. Mr. Wheeler, general counsel of the American Anti-Saloon league, will be the principal speaker at this meeting.

Before the convention closes it is expected also that authorization will be voted to change the association's name to "The New York State Council of Religious Education, Inc." Officials of the association assert that the organization now has the official endorsement of thirty-seven denominations in New York state.

Among the features planned for the convention is the presentation of a brief Bible play. This is designed to illustrate what can be done in small communities in the way of dramatization of Bible themes.

The first day of the convention will be devoted to consideration of county, district and division work, while school and educational problems will be the chief subjects of deliberation on the remaining two days.

PEOPLE'S PARLIAMENT

The Star disclaims all responsibility in regard to the views of correspondents expressed in this column and will not be held as endorsing them because publishing them. This column is intended to be for the people's use, the place where all can be heard whose statements are unobjectionable. The communication must be accompanied by the name and address of the author. If requested, these will not be published, however.

Burning Leaves.

Editor Star: The communication in this column yesterday relative to burning leaves on the pavement implies that there is no ordinance to prevent. While this may be true, the first city ordinance specifically prohibits the deposition of "any ashes, garbage, manure, offal or any other kind of waste or debris other than upon the public dumping grounds." As leaves from yards are "waste or debris" it is evident that they cannot be deposited on the streets, and if not deposited they cannot be burned there. Indirectly, at least, the city by this ordinance has power over the burning of leaves on the bituminous pavements.

But, if as yesterday's correspondent seems to believe, there is no direct prohibition of this pernicious practice, there should be; and the next meeting [illegible] would be a good time for introducing a prohibitory measure. And while they're about it, it might well be extended to the burning of leaves anywhere in thickly settled sections, where the smoke which often drifts like a pall over large areas, is unquestionably always unpleasant and often injurious to health.

Music Memory Contest

Prepared for the Playground and Recreation Association of America by Professor Peter W. Dykema of the University of Wisconsin

Selection No. 2—Minuet in G, by Ludwig van Beethoven (Born 1770 at Bonn, Germany, died 1827 at Vienna).

An Old Favorite.

This is one of the lighter numbers by Ludwig van Beethoven, one of the greatest musicians of the world. The simple graceful melody with its striking contrasting sections has caused this number to appear frequently on the programs of all the violinists.

Origin of the Minuet.

The minuet was originally a stately old French dance in three-four time, with three marked accents in each measure, a stronger accent followed by two weaker ones. The name comes from the French word "menu" (small) in allusion to the small, dainty steps of the dancers.

A Colonial Dance.

The dancing of the minuet was made fashionable at court by Louis XIV of France and Charles II of England. This courtly dance with the quaint formal costumes crossed the Atlantic with our forefathers of the southern colonies and became the conventional dance of our Colonial America.

Structure of the Minuet.

This particular minuet is taken from the set of six, published in 1796. It will be noticed that there are really two minuets, the first with two themes, each eight measures in length, then a contrasting minuet followed by a return to the first. The contrasting one is called a trio inasmuch as three instruments in three part harmony originally played it. The careful listener will enjoy picking out the various themes and trying to describe or characterize them.

SMITH HERE TONIGHT

Oneonta to Be Scene of First Big Address by Governor in Drive for Re-Election—Senator Copeland With Him

With the stage set to the last detail, Otsego county Democracy is prepared for one of the biggest events in its history tonight, when Governor Alfred E. Smith will open his campaign for re-election with an address in the Oneonta theatre.

Unusual importance is attached to the governor's appearance here tonight, as it marks his first address in the state gubernatorial campaign and he is expected to reply at length to charges and assertions made by Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Republican nominee for governor, during addresses recently made throughout the state.

"The campaign really begins Tuesday," said Governor Smith before leaving New York Sunday. "I am leaving for Oneonta Tuesday afternoon. There have been a great many questions asked me in the last couple of days, by newspapermen particularly, as to just what form in my opinion, the campaign is going to take. There has been a good deal of speculation as to how it will be conducted.

Stands on Record.

"From my side of it, I have just this to say: I am going to campaign, as far as the governorship is concerned, on the record which was made in Albany; on the progressive measures which have been under consideration for the past two years. I am going to talk about the business of the state of New York; what in my opinion should be done for the state and for the people of the state. Somebody is responsible for the Albany blockade in 1923 and 1924, and somebody, of necessity, must answer for it.

"Throughout the campaign, when I speak of state matters, I shall confine myself to the history and the record, and be prepared to back up to the last degree, every statement that I make."

United States Senator Royal S. Copeland and State Commissioner Bernard Schlentug will accompany the governor to Oneonta and they also probably will speak. The unusual importance attached to the governor's Oneonta address is indicated by the fact that a party of fifteen newspapermen will accompany him in order to secure first hand impressions of his opening attack.

Plans Completed.

L. P. Butts, chairman of the Otsego County Democratic committee, and who has been a warm personal friend of Governor Smith ever since the two served together in the legislature, announced last night that every detail had been completed to make the governor's reception a notable political event for this locality.

The governor and his party will arrive from Albany at 6:40 o'clock tonight. At 6 o'clock, Keeton's Oneonta band will assemble before the Oneonta hotel and play on the streets until time for the arrival of the train. Then the county committee and a reception committee will go to the station to meet the governor and his party and extend an official welcome. The escort headed by the band will go with the governor to the Oneonta hotel and the band will play before the Oneonta theatre until time for the meeting to begin.

Chairman Butts announced last night the appointment of the following reception committee: Mrs. W. T. Hyde and Rowan Spraker, Cooperstown; Mrs. Louise Hanlon Clark, P. James Gallagher and Dr. Edward J. Parish, Oneonta; Dr. Frank L. Winsor, Laurens; Clark E. DeForest, Hon. Charles C. Flaesch, Unadilla; James P. Friery and Mrs. Whitford, Schenevus; Charles Naylor, Morris; Almond Cramer and Mrs. Bloomenstock, Cherry Valley; Dr. George E. Schoolcraft, Hartwick; William P. Welden and J. Everett Williams, Richfield Springs, and Harlow VanDeusen, East Springfield.

Special Car Service.

Because of the late hour at which the governor and his party will arrive, no arrangements have been made for a parade, especially since the governor has requested that he be relieved from all possible extra strain because of his recent illness. Because of this, Governor Smith will accept no further invitations or other demands upon his time while here than that taken by his address in the theatre.

The program will open with a band selection. A quartet under the leadership of Jack Gessner, will sing old-time New York city songs. Seats have been arranged on the stage for a large number of prominent visiting Democrats and special car service will be provided for visitors from Cooperstown and intermediate points. The members of the county committee will meet at Democratic headquarters at 2 o'clock this afternoon to go over final arrangements and remain over for the governor's address.

"I talked over the telephone with Governor Smith tonight," said Mr. Butts last night. "He told me that he feels competent of meeting any emergency ahead so long as he can keep his efforts within reasonable bounds. He said he was glad he was going to start in active campaign for re-election in Oneonta and I believe this community has been accorded a great compliment in being given the opportunity to be the first to hear him upon the present political issues."

BOY BURGLAR CAUGHT

Thomas Maginley Caught in Act of Entering Billiard Parlor, Police Assert—Confesses Other Thefts, is Claim.

Thomas Maginley, 15 years old, of Huntington avenue, was arrested about 1:30 o'clock yesterday morning by Patrolmen Otto and Walley, after it is alleged he had been surprised in an attempt to rob Hubbard's Billiard parlor, 31 Chestnut street. With the arrest of young Maginley, the authorities declare they have cleared up two other burglaries of the same billiard parlor and also a robbery of the Stevens Hardware store on Main street.

Officer Walley declared that he first became aware that something was wrong at the billiard parlor when he heard a noise. Stealing quietly down an alley, the patrolman said he saw what appeared to be a man standing before the window. The officer then heard the sound of crashing glass and saw the dark figure jump through the window into the building.

Believing that at least one other might be aiding in the burglary, Walley telephoned to headquarters for help, fearing that the person inside would escape through the front if he entered through the broken window.

When Patrolman Otto arrived Maginley had jumped back out of the window and was hiding but surrendered when called upon by the officers.

When taken to headquarters, it is declared, he confessed to entering the billiard room on two other occasions. He is said to have declared he took $170 the first time and to have secured $10 the second.

He also is alleged to have admitted that he broke into Stevens Hardware store, where he took three revolvers, a quantity of ammunition and other articles. Officers went to his home, where they declare they found the three guns and the ammunition which had been taken from the hardware store.

Young Maginley is a member of a highly respected family and those who know him are at a loss to explain his actions. So far as is known he never before has been in trouble.

He was arraigned in city court yesterday morning before Acting City Judge Everett Holmes, who ordered him to appear before Judge Welch at the next session of children's court. Because of his age, he probably will be charged with juvenile delinquency. He was released in the custody of his father for appearance before Judge Welch.

Home Guards Study American Indian.

The Home Guards of the First Methodist Episcopal church held their regular meeting in the church parlors Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock. "Better Americans," which is to be the text book during the year, was used for the first time, the chapter of the day being on "The American Indian," and the way in which he helped the early settlers. The election of officers will take place at the next meeting, which will be held November 3. The members are planning a Hallowe'en party, to be held Wednesday evening, October 29, in the church parlors.

ELKS' CONCERT COURSE

Four Musical Entertainments of Merit Announced for the Annual Elks' Course Opening November 11.

Four musical entertainments of unusual merit have been announced for the concert course of Oneonta lodge, 1312, B. P. O. E., for the coming season which will open November 11 with the Metropolitan Grand Quartet, one which is reputed to be even better than the California quartet which opened the course of last winter. Tickets for the course are to be placed on sale at the meeting of the lodge to be held Wednesday evening, and Thursday will be offered to the public of this city and vicinity, being on sale at the stores of A. O. Ingerham, W. M. Bertrand, and Carr Clothing company.

In addition to the concert of the Metropolitan Grand Quartet which will open the course, the attractions include the Cheney Concert company which will present their program on December 9. The Cheney company is a group of four talented musicians who play a number of instruments, including the "White House Golden Organ Chimes," the feature of the program, so named because the members of the company entertained some 500 distinguished guests in the east room of the White House.

Doubtless Paul Vernon's Cleveland Symphonic Quintet, which is to appear on the evening of January 29, will prove the stellar attraction of the course. Paul Vernon, leader of the orchestra, is not only a capable musician and leader, but has the ability to give in an interesting way bits of information about the selections which are given, along with something of the history of the composer.

The orchestra was organized with the idea of giving the best in musical art in such a way as to be enjoyed by all and they have met with distinct success in popularizing various kinds of music among those who oftentime consider themselves unmusical.

The lyceum course will close with an entertainment on the evening of March 3 by the Apollo Duo, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wells, who for seventeen years gained recognition as the leading members of the Apollo Concert company, for many years considered the leading lyceum attraction of the country.

For two years the couple has traveled as a duo and have met with flattering receptions, being considered fully as entertaining and enjoyable as was that of the larger company.

Mr. Wells plays the banjo, saxophone and bassoon, and gives dialect stories and readings which his fat, jolly person makes even more pleasurable. Mrs. Wells has a charming personality and her rich contralto voice adds a delightful part to the program of high class musical numbers interspersed with plenty of good fun.

Those in charge of the course feel that they have secured an exceptional program of attractions for this year, and that the public should be warned to secure tickets early to avoid disappointment.

This Child Saw Mother Killed

The only witness to the killing of Mrs. Fern Compton Davies by her husband at San Francisco was their four year-old son, Wilbur Davies. "Papa hit mamma wif a big knife," lisps the child. The motive for the murder is unknown. There was a violent quarrel. Then the husband moved to Daly City, near San Francisco, carrying his wife's body in a trunk. Almost a month later shots were heard in the Davies cottage. Davies' body was found with two pistols beside it. Mrs. Compton and her son are shown above.

WADSWORTH TO SPEAK

U. S. Senator Will Open Republican Drive in Oneonta Thursday Next—Stands High as Party Leader.

James W. Wadswotrh, Jr., United States senator from New York, will open the Republican campaign in Otsego county Thursday night when he will deliver an address at the Oneonta theatre.

Senator Wadsworth is one of the most widely known and most influential leaders of the Republican party in both the state and nation. He is especially well known in Oneonta, where he has spoken several times.

Assemblyman J. C. Smith, chairman of the Otsego county Republican committee, now is completing arrangements for the meeting and he expects that complete details for Senator Wadsworth's reception will be announced tomorrow.

A reception committee will be appointed and the members of the Republican county committee also will be here in a body. Keeton's Oneonta band will play before the meeting and also at the theatre.

Senator Wadsworth is one of the most active figures in congress. He long has been identified with prominent legislative measures and has won a reputation for hard working conscientious efforts along legislative lines.

Actively interested in agriculture as well as other lines of business, he has brought a large and varied fund of information into his legislative work and his first hand knowledge of the farmer and his needs has put him in a position to speak with authority on agricultural subjects.

Senator Wadsworth has been a prominent figure in politics since 1905, when was elected to the New York state assembly. Here his talents were quickly recognized and he was elected speaker, serving from 1906 until 1910. He was elected United States senator from New York for the term beginning in 1915 and ending in 1927.

Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. A family supply easily and quickly made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for its healing effect on the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

HENRY DWIGHT BABCOCK.

Death of Founder of Babcock Company of Leonardsville.

Henry Dwight Babcock, aged 79 years, founder of the Babcock Manufacturing company of Leonardsville, died on Thursday last at the home of his daughter, Mrs. C. P. Titsworth of Plainfield, N. J. The funeral was held Saturday in Plainfield and interment was at Leonardsville on Sunday. Mr. Babcock was born in Leonardsville in 1845 and in his early manhood bought an interest in the local foundry and machine shop, which afterwards was reorganized and incorporated as the Babcock Manufacturing company, with himself as sole proprietor. He also organized and for a time conducted the Leonardsville Canning company and he was leader in the efforts which resulted in the building of the Unadilla Valley railway. The products of his foundry, being largely steel harrow frames, harrow teeth and agricultural implements, had a wide sale and are said to have enriched the community in the sum of two millions of dollars paid out for labor and material in his lifetime.

Mr. Babcock was a devout member of the Seventh Day Baptist church, in politics a life-long Republican, and always devoted to the interest of his community, and loyal to his friends, having refused a flattering offer with large shop and buildings in Duluth, because of the suffering which would be entailed by some of his old friends if "the shops" should close. He is survived by three sons, Frederick and Isaac of Leonardsville and John R. of New York, also by the daughter above named.

He is survived by one brother, Herbert of West Spring Creek, Pa., and four sisters, Mrs. Eliza Fish of Oneonta and Mrs. [illegible] Burr and Mrs. Irene Brewer of Hartford, Conn., and Mrs. Mary Mickel, residing here, all in advanced years, and by numerous nephews and nieces, to whom will be extended the sympathy of many friends. NOTABLE SALE OF FARM LANDS

ROOT BROS. TO DISPOSE OF ALL HOLDINGS AND PERSONAL PROPERTY.

Seven Farms Aggregating 1,300 Acres of Land Near Gilbertsville to Be Offered at Auction on Monday Next—Stock and Implements Following Days of the Week.

Root Bros., doubtless the most extensive farmers in Central New York, have decided to discontinue the business and will offer their farms at Rootville, in the town of Butternuts, embracing some 1,300 acres of land, for sale at auction on Monday, October 20, with auction sales each day during the remainder of the week, to dispose of the extensive stock of farming implements, cattle and young stock, horses, pigs, chickens, ducks, hay and grain.

This sale is one of the most extensive that has ever been held in this part of the state and doubtless will attract buyers from a wide area. The 1,300 acres of land will be offered as seven separate farms, all well equipped with buildings, and there will be plenty of live stock for any purchaser who may desire to stock one or more of the farms.

The schedule for the week is as follows:

Monday, October 20—Farms and machinery will be sold.

Tuesday, October 21—Machinery and tools.

Wednesday, October 22—Cattle and young stock.

Thursday, October 23—Cattle and young stock.

Friday, October 24—Horses, pigs, chickens and ducks.

Saturday, October 25—Hay, straw, grain, etc.

The business was originally founded by the late Major C. P. Root, long one of the substantial men of the county, more than 75 years ago and the acreage has been steadily increased and the volume of business also. Since the death of Major Root the business has been conducted by Root Bros., with W. Scott Root of Cooperstown giving much time to the business. The firm has had a fine market in New York city, where an exclusive patronage has been established and good prices have been secured for most of the products of the farm.

The reason for the discontinuance of the business and the sale of all the property is because of other business interests demanding so much of their time that they cannot afford to give it the attention it demands.

Oneonta will feel the effects of the change. The firm has supplied not a little of the fresh pork which has been offered in the local market and where to turn for an equally good and dependable supply will be the problem of local butchers.

It is announced that all the property will be sold and nothing reserved. Anyone interested is invited to inspect the property this week or before the day of sale. It is stated that the farming lands are in a high state of cultivation and the equipment is of the best.

The sale will no doubt attract many from a wide area and those planning to attend are invited to bring the family and permit all to see what is offered.

The body of young Shaffer was recovered Monday afternoon.

The three boys left their homes Monday and when they did not return a search for them disclosed their clothes on the shore of the lake and an overturned boat was the only evidence of what had taken place.

The animal was being led across the tracks by a farmer when the gateman shouted a warning of the approach of a fast passenger train. The farmer ran to safety, but the bull, hearing a challenge in the thundering noise of the approaching train, lowered its head and charged down the tracks. The locomotive and bull met head on. A bullet put the animal out of its misery.

SHORT WINTER COURSES TO OPEN AT AG. COLLEGE

Advise Early Registration for Students Planning on Work in Specialized Courses; Enrollment Limited.

The short winter courses of the state college of agriculture at Ithaca will open November 5, with registration at the office of the secretary of the college. Six courses are open to students wishing to take the work; general agriculture, dairy industry, poultry husbandry, fruit growing, flower growing, and vegetable gardening.

A student may register in only one course; and a practice that has been followed in past years is to take the general agricultural work one winter and then come back to specialize in the line that appeals to the particular person the following year.

Advices from the different departments giving the specialized courses indicate that there is a likelihood of their being crowded this winter, and that it would be wise for prospective students to send in their applications early. Full information about the winter courses may be obtained by writing the secretary of the college of agriculture at Ithaca. He will send to anyone interested a copy of the winter course announcement, which gives a list of the various subjects offered, as well as information about the cost of living in Ithaca and the total expense liable to be incurred during the three months' stay. Tuition is free to all residents of New York state, though students from out of the state must pay $25.

Authorities at the college feel that they are giving through the winter courses the best of practical type of instruction possible, and that it is probably the best investment of time that many farmers and farmers' sons can make during the fall and winter months.

THIS WOMAN'S MARVELLOUS RECOVERY

All Due to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Truman, Minn.—"I was badly rundown, had pains in my side and back; sometimes I could hardly move around in bed. My husband got me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after taking it I was so much better I could do all my work again. I do my housework, have a garden, raise chickens, and in harvest time I worked in the field and helped pick corn. Sometimes I do chores and milk. I took the Vegetable Compound before and after my four-months-old baby was born, and it has always helped me wonderfully. I believe there is no better medicine made for women, and I hope every woman will give it a fair trial."—Mrs. AUGUST R. WIEDERHOFT, R. No. 2, Box 81, Truman, Minn.

Women suffering from troubles so common to their sex should give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

The Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has relieved women of such troubles for the past fifty years. For sale by druggists everywhere.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

THE PASSION PLAY IN NEW YORK

To Be Presented Three Evenings a Week at Union Church.

Rev. Robert J. Harrison, pastor of Union church and Social Center, at Broadway and forty eighth street, New York city, formerly of Hobart, has felt for some time that the masses of young people of New York city and its environs, who are so tremendously busy in their efforts to make an adequate living, to the exclusion of much of their spiritual side of life, would love to see a great moving picture depicting the Passion of Jesus. And now, this great opportunity is here, for Rev. Harrison in conjunction with a group of deeply interested men announce that commencing Thursday evening, October 16, at 7:30 and 9 o'clock, and on every Thursday, Friday and Saturday evening thereafter, and lasting throughout the coming winter, they will produce at a very low admission fee, the greatest "Passion Play" in motion pictures the world has today. Through P. P. Craft, the American representative, they have secured the ancient world-celebrated Frieburg Passion Play — the tragic drama of the Gospels, without addition or expurgation. Up to date nothing like it has ever been seen on stage or screen. A moving drama of transcendent human interest, unprecedented and unequalled, a portrayal of the outstanding episodes of human history, enacted by the greatest living interpreters, trained through generations of absolute consecration to the sacred roles. The resources of a great state have been devoted for centuries to the perfection of the stupendous production. Its entire populace has devoted the present generation to creating a performance worthy of presentation in perpetuity through the medium of the motion pictures, now authorized for the first time.

WHO ARE NEW VOTERS

State Bureau of Elections Issues Instructions Defining Who Must Secure Literacy Certificates.

In order to clear up hazy ideas on who is and who is not a new voter, the State Bureau of Elections has sent out a circular letter defining the new voter. R. O. Marshall, city clerk, has received a copy. The letter also lists persons who are not new voters and are not required to produce evidence of literacy to the election inspectors.

The classifications:

All men and women born in the United States who became qualified to vote in New York state after January 1, 1922.

All men and women of foreign birth who become qualified to vote in New York state after January 1, 1922.

Persons not new voters and not required to produce evidence of literacy to the election inspectors:

Men, both of native and foreign birth who have not yet voted but who were qualified to vote before January 1, 1922. (A person who votes for the first time is not necessarily a "new voter").

Women, both of native and foreign birth, who have not yet voted but who were qualified to vote before January 1, 1922. (This will include many women who have not yet taken advantage of the federal suffrage amendment and who will be casting their first vote this year).

Illiterate men and women who were qualified to vote and have actually voted in New York state before January 1, 1922. (Present law not retroactive).

World war veterans who took out their final citizenship papers (under the special act of congress of July 19, 1919) before January 1, 1922.

A woman of foreign birth whose husband became naturalized before January 1, 1922.

EDITOR CHALLENGES CRITICS

Binghamton Press Invites Rev. D. Stanley Shaw, Clerical Critic, to Be Editor of Press for a Day.

The Rev. D. Stanley Shaw, pastor of the Tabernacle Methodist Episcopal church, in a sermon Sunday morning, severely criticised the average American newspaper as being unworthy of more than passing attention from a Christian man. He made it plain in his remarks that the newspapers of Binghamton, including The Binghamton Press, were no exceptions to the general run of newspapers that are not worth while.

The Binghamton Press agrees with the Rev. Mr. Shaw that the American newspaper is far from being a perfect product. Its editors are conscious that The Binghamton Press has its faults, despite constant efforts to eliminate them.

There being no better way to test a theory than to put it into practice, The Binghamton Press extends to the Rev. Mr. Shaw this invitation:

That upon any day he may select within the next three weeks he shall have delivered into his hands, without limitations or restrictions of any kind, the editorial direction of The Binghamton Press.

Every employe of the editorial department will cooperate with him cheerfully in producing the kind of a newspaper that he believes to be worth while.

He will replace for the day the managing editor and have the privilege of deleting from the columns of the paper any feature, any class of news matter, or any story, that may appeal to him as undesirable in a paper that enters Binghamton homes.

He may replace at will any employe of the editorial room by an assistant of his own choosing.

And in producing his ideal of a daily newspaper, The Binghamton Press and its editorial staff promise him the most hearty cooperation.—Binghamton Press.

Mike Wilson Starring at Wyoming.

Mike Wilson, young first baseman with the Oneonta Giants the past summer, is now a student at Wyoming Seminary and on Saturday played a stellar game at left halfback with the football team of that institution in the contest with the freshmen of Pennsylvania university, Wyoming winning by a score of 7-6. This was the first contest the Frosh had lost in two years, and marked the first time they have been defeated on their home field in 23 years.

Wilson blocked a punt in the first quarter which paved the way to Wyoming's lone but winning touchdown
